

GLOBE Student Research Conferences

Every several years, GLOBE Learning Expeditions (GLEs) are organized in order to provide students from around the world the opportunity to meet one another, establish friendships and develop collaborative partnerships that will enhance their future GLOBE experience. These conferences also provide teachers an opportunity to share ideas and challenges from their GLOBE experiences, to attend protocol and activity enrichment sessions, and to build connections for research efforts between schools.

GLOBE Learning Expeditions (GLE)

Student Learning Expeditions: International Student-Teacher Conferences

The 2003 GLOBE Learning Expedition (GLE) took place in Šibenik, Croatia. During the week, students presented their research projects and showcased their use of GLOBE Earth Science data. Students also participated in a day of fieldwork at Krka National Park and on the island of Obonjan. The GLE provided students with an opportunity to take GLOBE measurements in a new environment working side-by-side GLOBE Scientists!

Participants included approximately 400 students and teachers from the following 24 countries:

Argentina	Hungary
Bahrain	Japan
Cameroon	Lebanon
Canada	Norway
Croatia	Poland
Cyprus	Qatar
Czech Republic	Spain
Egypt	Switzerland
Estonia	Tanzania
Finland	Thailand
Germany	U.K.
Iceland	U.S.A.

The U.S. Delegation consisted of students from Alaska, Arizona, California, Idaho, Indiana, New Jersey, New York, Puerto Rico, Texas, and Washington D.C.
